Advice to Mothers
Have you had baby's photograph taken?
It's an art to take baby's photograph as it should be taken. To catch his roguish little smile, his pretty little dimple, such photographs become prized remembrances of babyhood's days in years to come. We have had years of experience in photographing children. They always look their best when we take them. No troublesome posing. Snap them in a jiffy.

TAFTVILLE
Pinochle Club Celebrated with Horrible Parade—Big Gathering at Picnic.

Wednesday evening a concert was given in the Pinochle club rooms from 8:30 o'clock until about 11:15 o'clock. Livingston's orchestra of six pieces furnished the music. Singing was also rendered by William Delaney, Joseph Leland, James Wilson and John B. Benoit. At 12 o'clock all the club members and guests formed in line and marched about the village. The line of march was through Front street, South Front, then continued to South B street, across Slater avenue, to North Front, over Front street again, up Providence and through Merchants' avenue and back to the club rooms. The parade was headed by Edward Bergeron, president of the club. The parade was a horrible parade and there were many funny costumes worn by the protesters. GERMAN CLUB PICNIC.
Big Time on Fourth at Grounds on the Lisbon Side.

The annual picnic of the German Shooting club was held in their park Thursday afternoon and evening. The grounds and buildings were artistically decorated in honor of the occasion with flags and red, white and blue bunting. Many prizes were awarded for bowling and shooting, and a special prize was awarded for ladies' shooting. About 300 were present at the festivities, and refreshments were on sale during the day. Dancing was enjoyed from four until nine o'clock. Krauss' orchestra furnished the music.

The picnic committee consisted of Richard Thomas, chairman, John Krauss and Fred Rodick. Richard Spielvogel was chairman of the decoration committee and John Wieland was the shooting master.

CROWD OF 1000 AT MOHEGAN PARK

City's Programme for the Fourth Attracted Many There—Band Concert at the Lake—Automobile and Motorcycle Parties.

The municipal programme for Norwich, under the auspices of the park commission, consisting of a band concert in Mohegan park in the pavilion on the lake, was successfully carried out on Thursday afternoon and attracted a Fourth of July crowd of about 1,000 people to the city's attractive pleasure resort. In spite of the heat, which no doubt deterred many from attempting the walk to the lake, the slopes around the shore of the pretty sheet of water were filled with those who appreciated the programme that was presented, and enjoyed several comfortable hours in the shade of the trees while they listened to the fine concert by the municipal band. The band made the trip to the lake and back in the big yellow auto truck of a Norwich moving firm. At the lake the various attractions that were offered for young and old were all doing a rush business. The swings had a waiting line of expectant children, the testing were similar popular diversion with the little ones, the three flocks of young pheasants in their wire enclosures had an interested throng of admirers, and the mother duck conveying her feet of young ones about the smooth waters of the lake was equally admired. Several boats with full complements of passengers paddled around, and the boys at the swimming stockade were on hand by scores to enjoy a dip in the refreshing water. For the wants of those who needed liquid refreshment of a harmless sort, after the warm and somewhat dusty walk up the road, the commissioners had seen to it that there should be several dispensers of soft drinks and ice cream on hand, and they did a rushing business also. While the majority of people who participated in the municipal programme for the Fourth walked up to the lake to hear the concert, many automobiles were on hand, and there was also quite a number of motorcycle riders. Altogether, it made quite an introduction to the park for many who probably had not seen what in future years will be a fine pleasure resort. The park commission has seen to it that the park will be more and more into a place of beauty, of which the citizens may well be proud.

BALLON SET FIRE TO ROOF OF HOUSE

At Home of Rev. Theodor Bauck—Only Bell Alarm for the Department.

The only bell alarm for the fire department on Thursday came at a few minutes before 8:30 in the evening, when box 225 at the corner of Franklin and Willow streets was struck in for a small blaze on the roof of the home of Rev. Theodor Bauck, pastor of the German Lutheran church, on Franklin street. The fire was started from the burning portion of a fire balloon which dropped on the roof. The dwelling is at the rear of the church. The blaze on the roof was seen by members of the minister's family, who telephoned to police headquarters and then to the fire station while some one in the streets turned in the alarm from the box. The department responded promptly with a crowd in attendance that blocked the street, but the blaze was put out as soon as the firemen got to the house. One of them got out of an attic window and smothered out the fire that was blazing among the shingles. The balloon was sent up from a pole, farther down Franklin street.

WEST SIDE DISPLAY FOR THE HOLIDAY

Fine Pyrotechnical Effects Furnished by Patriotic Committee.

No better display of fireworks was given this Fourth in the vicinity of Norwich than that arranged by a number of the patriotically inclined citizens of the West Side and set off Thursday evening near Usher's livery on land near the city. The display was a fine one, and the spectators were well pleased. The display was a fine one, and the spectators were well pleased. The display was a fine one, and the spectators were well pleased.

FOURTH OF JULY MENU AT THE ALMSHOUSE

Superintendent Chapman Gives Holiday Spread for the 70 Inmates.

For the 70 inmates at the almshouse Superintendent Chapman marked the Fourth of July by serving a special menu for the dinner hour which was attractively prepared by Mrs. Chapman. The menu comprised roasted ham, mashed potatoes, green peas, white bread and butter, pie, lemonade, frosted cake, candy for the women. The inmates partook of their holiday cheer heartily and thanked Superintendent Chapman for the special notice they had taken of the national holiday.

AT THE AUDITORIUM

Good Vaudeville and Motion Pictures.

An excellent holiday bill of pictures and vaudeville attracted a large crowd to houses of large proportions at the Auditorium on Thursday. The Message from Beyond is a photoplay of much interest, and the animated Weekly contained a number of timely subjects, including a number of films showing the Olympic athletes. As a comedienne Madge Hughes maintains the high place she has won in the estimation of Norwich audiences and Nash and Rinehart present clever bits of comedy, singing and dancing that take. More good comedy is contributed by the American Trio and the programme is well rounded out by the other films.

Fire on Lake Street Dump

The first call for the fire department on the Fourth came at 8:15 p. m. for a fire that had started on the Lake street dump. The auto chemical responded from the central station, quickly putting it out. The fire probably started from children playing with firecrackers.

NEW LONDON FIRST LINE OF STEAMSHIPS.

Royal Blue Line Receives Assurances of Patronage from Montreal Merchants.

New London men interested in the coming of the Royal Blue Steamship line, which proposes to make that city its home port, have received assurances that every facility for proper dockage will be arranged at the Grand Trunk dock there, and the pier will be rebuilt to accommodate the southern liners.

In addition to this the Grand Trunk will route its West Indian traffic from Canada to the Central Vermont pier at the Royal Blue line. Captain Smith of the steamship line has interviewed numerous dealers in Montreal, and all of them agreed to purchase large quantities of fruit shipped on the new line. They were enthusiastic over the proposition and felt that they and their customers would be benefited by the quickened transportation.

To the Royal Blue will belong the honor of being the first steamship company to demonstrate the importance of New London harbor as a gateway to the great interior markets of the northwest. With a single handling of freight, one of the Grand Trunk can be located from the Central Vermont dock for direct shipment to Montreal, Quebec, Ottawa, Toronto, Chicago, Detroit and points north and west. No port on the Atlantic coast has the advantage of New London and it will not be long now before the big companies come to a realizing sense of the fact that they are not in business for their health nor to help swell the coffers of New York. Custom alone is keeping many lines there today.

POLICE COME OUT IN SUMMER CAPS.

Regulars All Wearing the New Metropolitan Style—Twenty-two Issued to the Force.

When the police on night details went on duty Wednesday evening and the day men went on their beats on Thursday all were wearing the new caps which were issued Wednesday night instead of the old winter helmet. Twenty-two were required to equip all the regular men. The new caps are of the so-called metropolitan style of summer weight, dark blue in color, with two lighter blue straps, patent leather visor and strap, with the strap held on by gilt buttons.

The present trim, neat and business-like appearance, but were referred to by various members of the force as making them look like either the highwayman or a delivery man, chauffeurs or "dot leadie German band."

IN THE CITY COURT.

Fined for Celebrating the Fourth Too Soon.

In the city court on Friday morning with Judge John H. Barnes on the bench, Henry Hansen of Wilmamatic, who was arrested the night before for throwing cannon crackers out of a window at the Del-Hoff hotel, was fined $1 and costs for intoxication and $5 and costs for the violation of the city ordinance. Henry Gillen of Westerly, arrested for breach of the peace, had his case continued a day, and the same was also done with the case against Joseph Vounce, a boy of 12, who was arrested for injury to private property. Philomena Fiskone of the East Side, an Italian woman, charged with breach of the peace and arrested upon complaint of another woman, also had her case continued to July 5.

Crowd Hears Fight Returns.

With a direct line from The Bulletin to Chicago, the returns from the Johnson-Flynn fight at East Las Vegas, New Mexico, were announced to a crowd of several hundred people gathered in the city on Thursday afternoon. The news began to come in soon after 4 o'clock, being received one minute after the event occurred in the ring. The difference in time between the two places is two hours.

From the first the bulletin indicated no hope for the "white hope," and consequently there was a great deal of enthusiasm in the crowd. As the rounds continued to show that Flynn was powerless before the colored giant, the people only waited for the end. It came no sooner than expected, even if not as a knockout, in the ninth.

Quick Work Cleaning Streets.

Quick work in cleaning up the streets from the Fourth of July litter was done Thursday night. As soon as the celebrators had reached the limit at 11 o'clock the department had its men out on the business streets and everything was quickly swept up and put out of the way.

While Listening to Fight Returns.

Michael Kelly and John Leoney were arrested by Policemen Charles Smith on Thursday afternoon as the result of an argument which got them into a breach of the peace in Franklin street about the time the returns on the Johnson-Flynn fight were being given out at The Bulletin building.

On State Committee.

Dr. M. S. Laughlin of this city was a member of the committee appointed by the new state association of osteopaths to notify national headquarters of the Connecticut body's existence.

WHY YALE LOST ON WATER.

Split Between Coaches and Captain Over Selection of Crew a Determining Factor.

Yale's failure to secure a victory on the water this year over Harvard, a New Haven writer figures, was due to the fact that Yale's best crew was put in the boat. There was a split, he maintains, at the last moment between coach and captain, and several men went in who might have been held out with better results. Summing up the athletic situation in New Haven, he says:

There is some comfort in the fact that the results this year were a little better than last year, though only a very little. The finish of the previous year on the gridiron was lacking, but the team as a whole did better than Captain Daly's team. The crew cut down the Harvard lead tremendously, and though it was a bad defeat the crew authorities see some things which will give them hope for next year. The track season resulted worse than the season last year, the only redeeming feature being the bringing back to Yale for a few days of the world's best runner in the pole vault. The baseball team spent an erratic season. At the start it seemed undoubtedly the championship team, but some things happened about the time of the series with Princeton, and Princeton won without trouble. But the season was better than 1911, because of the fact that Yale won a two game series from Harvard, and for the first time in years won the commencement game at Cambridge.

While there is much satisfaction in the better record made by the crew at New London, there was considerable dissatisfaction in the makeup of the varsity boat for the race at New London. After the race it became known that he shifts in the boat of the few weeks before the race had not been made with the unanimous approval of the coaches. The members of the crew squad are reticent in discussing the matter, but it is well known that there was a lack of unanimity and almost a split among those prominent in Yale rowing. But it is undoubtedly true that the makeup of the boat when the eight men rowed away from the boat at Gales Ferry was not the way that Mr. Cook would have chosen it, and more than one graduate has said that it is time the absolute power of selection should be taken away from the captain and put in the hands of the head coach, whose word would be final, as with Coach Courtney at Cornell.

Covered several times the right came over Philbin, who rowed in the boat last year, and who did not row in the varsity up to few days before the race, after the men went to Gales Ferry, though he had rowed in the season. There had been a feeling among the coaches, as well as other members of the crew squad, that Philbin was not the strongest man of the varsity boat. The squad members said nothing about it, as they thought it would be extremely bad form, but coaches who saw the men rowed did not hesitate to say that the eight men in the varsity boat were not the best eight men who were in the crew squad at New London. An instance of New York graduates, who was an oarsman of great reputation some years ago, said that Burgee, the stumpy little Sheffield man, was a better oarsman than two or three who were in the boat at the final event.

But another thing that prevented Yale from making a better showing according to Yale oarsmen was the fact that the crew raised the stroke too late in the season. After rowing at 22 for the greater part of the season, an attempt was finally made to shove the stroke much higher, and the attempt failed to bring about good results.

The failure to raise the stroke may be ascribed to the coaching force, perhaps, but the failure of the crew in other particulars is laid at the door of the captain by men prominent in Yale rowing, who claim that one man power is bad for the crew, especially when that man is one of the eight men in the boat.
